TRADE AND COMMERCE.

Regina Board of Trade Replies to the Department's Circular.

The council of the Regina Board of Trade met a few days ago, Mayor Eddy in the chair. On the motion of Mr. R. B. Ferguson, a resolution was passed strongly endorsing the recent resolution of the Lethbridge Board of Trade, in favor of a railway through the Crow's Nest Pass, a copy of such resolution to be sent to the Hon. W. Laurier and the Minister of Railways. The circular letter from the Department of Trade and Commerce in reference to the extension of trade was brought up for consideration, and the secretary (Mr. Wm. Trant) was instructed to send the following reply:

SIR—As a result of the consideration given to your communication, I am instructed to say in reply, that this is a purely agricultural district, and has an elevator, a grist mill and a dairy factory. There are no manufactures of any kind in this neighborhood, with the exception of a brick kiln, which supplies little beyond local wants, though it is believed that with lower freight rates, the trade in that commodity would be considerably increased. It is also known that there is an abundance of pottery clay close to the town, but for want of cheap access to markets, capital has not been attracted to develop the same. There is, too, a small trade in river and lake fish and furs. With the exception of agricultural products there are no exports from this district to other countries. There is a considerable amount of importation from both the United States and Europe, chiefly hardware from the former country and dry goods from the latter, some of them from Germany. The great desideratum for this district is lower freight rates; and if to this be added a reduced customs tariff, the Regina Board of Trade believes that there would be an increased trade from here, on the ground that the increased import trade that would follow a reduction of customs duties, would necessarily, according to well known laws, result in an expansion of the export trade. Following the same line of reasoning, the Board is in favor of a fast and cheap Atlantic service and of railway extension. Particularly, the Board urges the immediate construction of the Hudson Bay railway; and what is of still greater importance, the construction of a railway through the Crow's Nest Pass. This route could not fail to rapidly develop the whole of the North-West Territories, by enabling them to supply their products to the mining districts of British Columbia, at present drawing supplies to an enormous extent from the United States. I beg to enclose reports of a debate in the Territorial Legislative Assembly on the subject, from which you will be able to gather much valuable information.

The Cost of Fuel.

The fuel question is one which interests everybody alike, and naturally the cost of the different kinds of fuel are carefully looked into, especially in a North-West town, where the cost of fuel is always one which is generally dreaded. The following are the rates which the citizens of Moose Jaw are asked to pay this season: Galt coal—(delivered) Nut $5.56, lump $6.50; Anthracite—Furnace and stove $9.00, nut $7.50; Roche Peavee—$1.00 at car and $1.50 delivered. Wood—Furnace or poplar, $5.50 at yard or $6.00 per cord delivered.

In Memory of Our Heroes.

The citizens of Battleford and the members of "C" division of the N.W. M.P. have recently erected and placed in position, at the entrance of the public cemetery, situated on the banks and overlooking the North Saskatchewan, a pair of stone pillars and gates as a token of respect and in memory of those who gave up their lives in defence of their hearths and homes during the rebellion of 1885. On the right hand pillar is a tablet with the following inscription: "Erected by the citizens of Battleford as a memorial of those who were killed during the rebellion of 1885." The left hand pillar is faced with a neat bronze tablet designed for the Mounted Police by Const. C. Reed, and cast at the Vulcan Iron Works, Winnipeg, under the superintendence of S. Hooper, architect, with this inscription and design: "In memory of (crown) Canada. (A Buffalo Head) Corp. L. B. Sleigh, Corp. W. T. Lowry, Const. D. Cowan, Const. P. Burke, Const. G. Elliott, members of the North-West Mounted Police, who were killed in the vicinity of Battleford in the rebellion of 1885." Both the tablets and gates are finished in green and bronze gilt and present a neat and appropriate appearance.

During the coming session of the Manitoba Legislature an attempt will be made to pass a law putting the game of football on the same plane as prize fighting, which is felony in Missouri.

Mr. Tarte's Visit.

Hon. Mr. Tarte passed through Moose Jaw on his return east on Friday of last week, after spending some six weeks in Manitoba and the Territories. Mr. Tarte took advantage of the opportunities his extended visit afforded him, by mingling freely with the people and acquainting himself with the conditions of the country. In giving the impression the visit made on him, Mr. Tarte said: "I found everywhere I went unbounded confidence, and this confidence struck me as being one of the most encouraging and hopeful features. No one is discouraged or discontented. A more satisfied people cannot any where be found."

Ministers Visiting the West.

Ministers Davies and Blair passed through Moose Jaw this week, on their way to the west, coming by way of the Soo line. The party are travelling in the private car "Ottawa," and consists of Hon. A. G. Blair, Minister of Railways and Canals; Hon. L. H. Davies, Minister of Marine and Fisheries; Col. Jas. Donnelly, M.P., for St. John, N. B.; E. B. Williams, secretary to Mr. Davies, and J. E. W. Currier, secretary to Mr. Blair. The car is equipped for a long trip across the continent, having good sleeping and dining arrangements. Hon. Mr. Davies is bound for Victoria to attend the International Arbitration Commission meeting now sitting in that city to discuss and arbitrate the Behring sea seal and fish dispute pending between the United States and Great Britain. The other members of the party will proceed to the Kootenay district where they will remain several weeks.

Only $10,000 Wanted.

The following clipping from the Regina Leader explains itself, and will undoubtedly be of interest to readers of THE TIMES:

Last week the manager of this paper received a note from Mr. N. F. Davis a solicitor threatening civil suit for breach of contract in connection with "The Leader" sale, and of a malicious prosecution of Mr. N. F. Davis for criminal libel, unless costs and damages were tendered and apologies published and circulated to an extent satisfactory to that gentleman. The names of the advocates of the manager of The Leader were tendered to Mr. Davis's solicitor, and on the 23rd inst. a writ was served at Mr. Davis's instance. The action taken is for $10,000 damages. Mr. Davis alleges in the statement of claim that he has suffered pain of body and mind through and by the acts and deeds of the manager of this paper. He wants damages for numerous alleged libellous statements made in The Leader concerning him, for the fact that he was not allowed the continued use of The Leader columns according to the terms of an agreement made in August, 1895, and for the reason that he was compelled to stand trial, alleged to be malicious and unwarranted, at the hands of the aforesaid manager.

Many and many a time has Mr. Davis boasted of being able to demolish any one who dared to cross his path. The evident interest Mr. Davis is displaying in regard to the manager of The Leader would almost make one believe that he was anxious to reduce the latter to any position of vantage that he could obtain. The dimensions of his importance had attained such proportions as to make him visible in the aforesaid path. If the rush of Christmas advertising does not preclude the possibility of its publication, readers of The Leader will be treated to a perusal of Mr. Davis's statement of claim.

Hockey Notes.

Owing to the non-appearance of the hockeyists at the rink on Tuesday evening last, it was necessary to postpone the meeting for re-organization until Tuesday evening next, when all interested are requested to meet at the store of R. E. Doran, to elect officers, etc. for the season.

Medicine Hat is to have a new rink this winter. Mr. Colter is rushing the work and expects to have the rink open by the beginning of next week. The building will be a permanent one, with a sheet of ice 50x150 feet, and an annex for curlers. There will be waiting rooms, etc., and a four foot walk will run down the whole length of the rink between the curlers' and skaters' ice.

Regina hockeyists met at the Windsor on Saturday evening and chose officers for the season as follows:—Patrons, Com. Herchmer and F. W. G. Haultain; Hon. Pres., Lt. Governor Mackintosh; Pres., J. C. Pope; Vice President, W. M. Child and W. G. Pettigill; Capt., M. McIntyre; Sec., Treas., A. E. Whitmore; Committee Messrs. Peters, Browning, Benson, Pingle and Scott. It was decided to start the year with a dance, the executive committee to state the date. Practice will be commenced immediately. The N. W. M. Police are thinking of organizing a club. If so, some hot matches may be expected, as they have some old eastern players on the force.

THE FARM.

RAISING A DAIRY HERD.

Good practical dairymen have long ago ceased trying to pick up supplies for their herds at haphazard throughout the country. It requires the utmost care, and as Mr. Gurley says in Feeders' Gazette, the herd is the foundation, and without a good foundation no kind of business can prosper or be permanently successful. If we build our foundation with cows that have a capacity to make no more than 150 lbs. of butter per annum, we shall make a miserable failure of dairying. We must have cows that will produce with intelligent feeding and care sufficient to pay for feed and labor and leave a balance for profit. When we cannot accomplish this there is something wrong with us and we need to commence with ourselves, taking time to do some intelligent planning of our work. Who are ourselves to blame for our keeping unprofitable cows? Are we expecting in this progressive age for not knowing whether our cows are paying profit or not? And when the dairy whose whole is profitable is it good business when we do not know what cows are making the profit, which are making no profit, and which are making a loss? Before the introduction of the Babcock test there was some excuse for a dairyman not knowing what his individual cows were producing, but now there is no excuse whatever for this addition to the simple and thoroughly reliable way of testing the cows. A person with average intelligence can learn to operate the Babcock test in very short time. A machine of sufficient size for a dairy can be bought for $50 or $100.

Now, having the cows and the Babcock testing machine, let us give each cow a name, or, what is better, a number on a tag in the ear. Then we want a record of some kind to weigh the milk, and take a sample of about one quart of milk from each milking and put it into a small bottle—an eight-ounce bottle will answer very well. When a cow is milked pour the milk from one pail into another three times and get it thoroughly mixed before taking the sample to put in the bottle. Keep this bottle in a cool place to prevent the milk souring before it is tested.

When the weather is warm it is safer to use some preparation to prevent the samples souring. A quart of milk will accomplish this very nicely. By the use of a quantity the size of a nutmeg in each bottle, it can be procured from drug stores and should be pulverized. At the end of three days work out the test, which will give you the percentage of fat in each cow's milk. This percentage of fat and the weight of milk produced multiplied together will give us the total fat produced by the different cows. To the fat add one-eighth, or 12 per cent, and we shall have a very close estimate of the butter each cow will have made if we have done intelligent work in handling the milk and cream from the cow to the finished butter. Do not be discouraged by anything or anybody from undertaking this test work, as it is the only practical way you can learn what each cow is making. There is no more reason for keeping a cow that will not make than for keeping a cow that will not make. A hired man who can no more pay for his board. When properly fed and cared for a cow that does not produce 200 pounds of butter annually should be sold as soon as possible. Heifers or young cows that have not reached maturity we must use judgment about and not be too hasty in condemning a heifer with her first or second calf. In case a person is starting new in the dairy work and has his cows to purchase, I would recommend the cows to be tested before they are bought, and buy only such as produce sufficient milk to make them profitable.

The probability is that we shall never again sell butter for 40 cents per pound. The tendency of the times is to lower prices and we must prepare to meet them and this means in the dairy that we must have better cows and handle them and their product with more intelligence. I believe a dairyman should grow his own cows in place of purchasing, as I am confident he can grow better ones than he can purchase. Exercise care in selecting a male to use with the herd. A few dollars here will not amount to much per head on the calves that will be raised from him. Remember that a cow that will produce 400 pounds of butter annually is worth four times as much in the herd as the cow that produces 250 pounds, as the 250-pound cow leaves but fifty pounds for profit and the 400-pound cow has 200 pounds for profit. In 1894 my mature cows produced 329 pounds of butter per cow, and I had six that made over 400 pounds, one making 508 pounds, and she a grade Holstein-Friesian. One registered Jersey with her first calf made over 400 pounds of butter.

AMONG THE POULTRY.

"Make hay while the sun shines," should be the motto of poultry owners these fine autumn days. Quantities of leaves should be provided for strewing over the floor of henhouses after the daily cleaning up. The sand heap should be replenished so as to insure a fresh supply during the winter. A lot or two of sawdust will be found to be an excellent article to spread over the floors of the coops; it is a good absorbent. The practice of spreading the contents of the ashpan from coal fires is not a good one. Poultry often contract a disease similar to stone-bruise by flying from the perch upon the cinders contained in coal ashes. Try filling the nesting boxes with dry earth, leached ashes, or better yet, unleached ashes. We have found that earth or ashes are superior to nests made of straw or hay. The saving will be something, too, especially if your flock of hens is large.

Nests should be replenished every two or three weeks and examined as to their condition. See that no fowls remain upon the nests at night, and also note that the boxes are not placed under perches or other places where the fowls roost. If vermin are found in the boxes remove and scald them, then sprinkle with strong brine, and afterward fill half full of earth or ashes and replace and you will have no trouble with vermin for some time at least.

Before poultry goes into winter quarters see that they are free from vermin. Examine them and if lice are found apply a mixture made of lard and kerosene. Mix well by stirring briskly until it is of the consistency of cream, and apply freely to the top of the head, wings, legs, etc. Do not depend upon dry sulphur mixed in the dust bath, since, rather mix in the soft food for poultry. Sulphur should be given to fowls once every week. Feather-eating is caused by a deficiency of sulphur in foods, and unless you wish your fowls to acquire that pernicious practice or habit, supply it in the food. It is obnoxious to vermin by being absorbed into the system and finding an outlet at the pores of the body. The same rule will apply to horses and cattle that are infested with vermin. We would never think of riding animals of lice by sprinkling sulphur around them. Instead, the surest way is to give a dose of sulphur in soft food.

A very handy adjunct of the poultry house is a spirit broom. It can be made of lard or hickory and is strong and durable. If the poultry quarters are cleaned daily, as they should be when large numbers are congregated, the work is very much lessened and the broom will generally be found to be sufficient. When the cleaning is not done daily but weekly, a broom should be used first, followed by a spirit broom. A small hand-broom will be found very handy. The henhouse should undergo a thorough inspection. Do not leave gaping cracks, where the fumes from the brooder will be found to be sufficient. Whatever is done to increase the comfort and well being of your fowls increases their profit in the same ratio. Do not overwork nor allow crows among your winter layers. Secure also a quantity of road dust and provide a place where corn and wheat can be buried in it so as to induce scratching for it, thus saving needed exercise. Give all the milk you can spare, either sweet or sour, also table scraps, feed these things. Baked wheat is recommended to be fed warm on cold mornings. Potatoes or vegetables may be added, also a dash of cayenne; this will put your fowls in better spirits than if a breakfast of cold grain were given alone.

INFLUENZA AND SUICIDE.

An Explanation of the Cause of Suicides Which Have Lately Occurred.

A case which occurred lately at Dover, where a Scottish gentleman committed suicide, is of importance in one particular, says the London Medical Press. At the inquest it was pointed out that he had not been himself since an attack of influenza two years before, and that in all probability this attack was the primary cause of the suicide. The importance of this fact, with regard to motives for suicide, should not be disregarded, and we are of the opinion that a large number of the unexplained cases of suicide which have occurred lately are, in all probability, to be ascribed to post-influenza cerebral changes. During the six epidemics which have spread over the country since the winter of 1893-94, a very large proportion of the population have suffered, while many of these must have developed nervous symptoms. To turn to a particular instance, a case in court not long ago depended on the question whether a man had committed suicide or not, but the fact that he had had an attack of influenza two years before was not insisted on, owing to the length of time which had elapsed between the attack and the death—just about the same time, it will be noticed which elapsed between the attack and the suicide in the first case. Medical writers will all remember that, if the actual effects of influenza, though protean, are fleeting, the after results in many are of long duration, and often of a nervous character, leading to the cerebral instability.

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

The Frequent Cause of Much Misery and Suffering.

The Victim Helpless and Unrelieved—It Says the Constitution and Makes One Involuntarily Ask Is Life Worth Living.

From the Lindsay Post.

It is at least commendable to bow before the inevitable. But what appears to be inevitable may be delayed or altogether averted. What were considered necessary fatal diseases twenty-five or even ten years ago in many instances are not now placed in that category—thanks to medical and scientific skill. Life is sweet. We must either control the nervous or they will master us. Hysteria may prove fatal. It renders the person afflicted helpless and unreliable, and casts a continual shadow upon a hitherto bright and cheerful life. It saps the constitution and makes one involuntarily ask, "Is life worth living?" Miss Fanny Watson, daughter of Mr. Henry Watson, living on lot 22 in the township of Somerville, Victoria county, is one of those whose life for years was made miserable from nervous disease. At the age of twelve Miss Watson met with an accident which so seriously affected her nervous system that during the subsequent five years she was subjected to very severe nervous prostration, resulting in convulsions with unconsciousness for three or four hours at a time. This condition continued until March last when she had an increased and prolonged attack by which she was completely prostrated for the space of a fortnight. The disease was so advanced that she was unable to see, hear, or feel. She was forced to wear glasses. Many remedies were tried but with no avail, and both Mrs. Watson and her friends feared that a cure could not be obtained. Ultimately Dr. Williams' Pink Pills were strongly recommended by various friends and the young lady decided to give them a trial. A half dozen boxes were bought, and by the time one box was used there was an improvement in her condition, and before the half dozen boxes were used, Miss Watson was, to use her own words, a different person altogether. Her entire nervous system was relieved of such an onerous burden that she is now able to dispense with the use of the glasses which previous failing eyesight had made necessary. Miss Watson is now a staunch friend of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and says: "I have pleasure in recommending them to all similarly afflicted." Rev. D. Miller, friend of the family, vouches for the fact above set forth.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills create new blood, build up the nerves, and thus cure nervous disease. In hundreds of cases they have cured after all other medicines have failed, thus establishing the claim that they are the marvel among the triumphs of modern medical science. The genuine Pink Pills are sold only in boxes, bearing the full trade mark, "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." Protect yourself from imposition by refusing any pill that does not bear the registered trade mark around the box.

A LEGAL REUSE.

What makes Blackcoke carry home a lot of law books every night he's out late?

Makes his wife think he's been working hard on a case. Catarrh, Gonorrhea, and all throat and lung diseases are cured by Shiloh's Cure.

A heavy flatiron, weighing seven or eight pounds, will do better work if it is passed over the clothes once in a hurry than if it is passed over the clothes two or three times.

Ask your physician, your druggist and your friends about Shiloh's Cure for Consumption. They will recommend it for you. Pounded glass mixed with dry corn meal and placed within the reach of rats, it is said, will banish them from the premises.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than in all other diseases put together, and until the last year there was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local treatment, and pronounced it incurable. Science has proved Catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Halls Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from one to five grains, and acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure, send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists.

CROW'S NEST RAILWAY.

The Legislative Assembly, at its recent session, passed the following timely resolution, urging upon the Federal Government the importance of the immediate construction of the Crow's Nest Pass railway:—

"Resolved, that the House takes the liberty to draw the attention of the Federal Government to the imperative necessity for immediate construction of the Crow's Nest Pass railway; that unless this is done the trade of the Kootenay district may be permanently deflected into American channels; that the Crow's Nest Pass contains large areas of bituminous and camel coal of a cooking quality; that with these valuable coals the erection of smelters and refineries may be expected to follow; that the existence of this railway will at least permit these Territories to compete with Eastern Washington in the supply of the necessary large amount of food products required in the mining regions of South Eastern British Columbia; that the construction of the railway in these Territories having heretofore been carried out without due regard to vested interests of existing towns the Assembly trusts that in considering this important subject the Federal Government will be pleased to see that the town sites of Lethbridge and Macleod be not overlooked, provided the construction of the railway in question through these towns in no way interferes with the general purpose which makes its construction a necessity.

NEWSPAPER READERS.

Rev. T. A. Howard, of the Crown Hill Baptist church in Niasua, N.H., is a preacher whose sayings deserve to be widely read and quoted. One Sunday recently he preached a sermon on the subject of reading newspapers. In the course of his remarks the speaker said:

There are various classes of readers. The hour glass reader is one class. They are the readers who retain nothing of what they read. There is the sponge reader. This is the class that absorbs all they read. They give it out when squeezed like the sponge when water is squeezed out. It is a little drier than when soaked up. There is the jelly bag class. This is the class who lets the good all run through and retains the refuse—the bad. The fourth class is represented by an old woman. They so read as to get all the good they can out of the papers.

This class, it is needless to add, is the one to which all decent newspaper men cater to. The world is full of sin and corruption. The newspaper, which is but a reflection of the world, necessarily prints much that is unpleasant and unclean. The reader, like the human eye, sees what he has the power to see. If he is looking for filth he will find it, or the reflection of it, in the newspaper. If he seeks the true and beautiful the newspaper can supply his wants. The reader who would reform the newspaper must first reform himself.

BEECHER AS A SLAVE AUCTIONEER.

Even people of mature years whose memory is clear about matters before and during the American Rebellion have practically forgotten that Henry Ward Beecher used his pulpit in Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, as an auction block for slaves. The most famous of his "slave sales" was that of the beautiful girl, Sarah, and it was upon this occasion that the most exciting scenes ever witnessed in Plymouth Church, or in any other American church for that matter, occurred. Mr. Beecher was unusually dramatic; he put a fire into his words, as he stood the slave girl on the platform beside him, which fairly burned into the hearts of his auditors. It was not long before the people became almost hysterical with excitement. But Beecher kept on until he was ready to pass the collection basket. Then the auditors gave vent to their feelings, and not only heaps of money was put into the basket, but men and women took off their rings, unfastened their watches and threw them into the basket and on the platform. It was a remarkable scene and such a one as will perhaps never be equalled in this country. Mrs. Beecher recalls the event with wonderful vividness in her article in the Christmas Ladies' Home Journal, when she tells the whole story of "When Mr. Beecher Sold Slaves in Plymouth Pulpit." The scene itself is remarkably well brought to the eye of the reader by a striking illustration made by De Thulstrup from material furnished the artist by Mrs. Beecher.

AN INTERESTING INCIDENT.

It was by the purest chance that the infant received the name which has since been given to the age in which she lived. The Duke of Kent, with a watchful eye to the future, wished to call her Elizabeth, thinking, rightly enough, that such a name would help to endear her to a people whom he firmly believed she would one day rule over. Of an athletic physique, which he had never deranged by dissipation, he even thought himself to have a good chance of coming to the throne. "My brothers," he once remarked, "are not as strong as I am, and have not lived so regular a life. I expect to outlive them all. The crown will come to me and my children." But in the matter of the name he was overruled, and it was decided to call her Alexandra, after the Russian Emperor, and Georgiana, in compliment to the Prince Regent. Fortunately at the last moment, the latter objected to his naming his grandchild, and suggested in its stead the name of the Duchess of Kent—Victoria. And so the child of many hopes was christened, with the words of its grandmother in Cologne yet ringing in the mother's ears: "May God's blessing rest on the little stranger! Again a Charlotte, destined perhaps to play a great part one day, if a little brother is not born to take it out of her hands. The English like a Queen, and the niece of the ever-lamented, beloved Charlotte, will be most dear to them. I need not tell you how delighted everybody is here."

Every year large sums of money are sent out of the Territories for Christmas turkeys, geese, ducks, chickens, etc. Why do our farmers raise fowl enough to supply the local demand and thus keep this money in our midst.

The Montreal Gazette, Conservative, says: "The indications are that Mr. Sifton will be elected to Parliament by acclamation in Brandon. The Manitobans appreciate at its full value the importance of having a friend at court. Besides that they should feel well disposed towards the new Minister. His entry into the Laurier cabinet represents the triumph of their national school ideas."

The writer of the following must have been suffering from an overdose of his favorite: "Tell me not in mournful numbers that I mustn't eat green fruit; what is life without cucumbers, salt and vinegar to suit. But enjoyment and not sorrow, in our destined end and way; just to eat that earth-to-morrow finds us fatter than to day. The cucumber crop is flitting, green apples for no one wait; let us then be up and eating with a heart for any fate."

The Liberals of Saskatchewan, in convention at Prince Albert on Wednesday of last week, chose Mr. T. O. Davis, as their candidate in the coming bye-election. According to report he is likely to be returned, unopposed, unless by the faction of Liberals who are so bitter against his candidature; but it seems contrary to reason that the Conservatives will not bring out a candidate under such circumstances. Other gentlemen who were voted for at the convention are Hon. Clifford Sifton, and his brother, Mr. A. L. Sifton, of Calgary; H. J. Montgomery, J. C. Slater, and J. A. McArthur, of Prince Albert.

Persons who patronize papers should pay, for the pecuniary prospects of the Press have peculiar power in pushing forward prosperity. If the printer is paid promptly and his pocket book kept plenteous by promptly paying patrons, he puts his pen to paper in peace, he paints his picture of passing events in more pleasing colors, and perusal of his paper is a pleasure to the people. Paste this piece of proverbial philosophy in pumpkin pie order in some place where all persons may see it plainly.

Qu'Appelle Progress: The record of the work of the Moose Jaw Creamery, which will be found in another column, will be interesting to many of our readers. To Indian Head residents as showing what great cause for congratulation there is in the fact that an industry conferring such benefits on the surrounding district and capable of such rapid development, has been so well established there: to the district north of Qu'Appelle as affording those who are now agitating to secure a creamery in the near future, one more proof where-with to convince their sceptical neighbors. It cannot be forgotten that the machinery of the Moose Jaw factory was once working at Fort Qu'Appelle, but while everyone must regret the lack of patronage which caused the removal, now that time and circumstances are more ripe, the fact of the first failure should not discourage anyone from renewing his efforts to secure what, with proper support, could not fail to be an institution of great benefit to all concerned."

As anticipated, the Hon. Clifford Sifton was, on Friday last, declared elected by acclamation as the member of the Commons for the Brandon constituency, and Minister of the Interior in the Laurier Cabinet. In his address to the electors he said that they were acquainted with his record and able to judge of his fitness for the position in the Government to which he had been called. He believed that the accession of a new government to power gives an opportunity to secure changes in administration which will benefit the North-West. The school question has been happily terminated by settlement which will be satisfactory to the great majority of our citizens, and this is a complete vindication of the policy of the Government and a proof of the sagacity of Hon. Wilfrid Laurier. The West has been retarded by the serious mistakes of the last eighteen years, but it is useless to waste time in regrets and the duty of the hour is to bend all energies to the work in hand. He promises that the new Government will make a determined effort to grapple with the problem of developing the West. He keenly appreciates the magnitude of the task and has accepted office with the determination to devote himself to its accomplishment.

If the Armenian massacres continue in unabated atrocity, says Galswin Smith in the Weekly Sun, the blame does not rest on the British Government, which has evidently done its best to bring about a concert of the powers. Those who wily clamor for the intervention of Great Britain single handed, fancy that she is omnipotent, have heard from Lord Salisbury a wholesome truth. Great Britain is not a military power. Her army is comparatively small, and having no conscription, she has no means of promptly increasing it to any large extent. In the Crimean War as well as in the war of the American Revolution, she was compelled to hire foreign troops. Her regular army is 220,000. By calling in the reserve she might raise it to 300,000. Of these, India calls for 70,000, and my at any time call for more, while about 40,000 are required by the dependencies and Egypt. A sufficiently large army, therefore, could not be sent to Turkey without dangerously denuding the United Kingdom. To say nothing of the possible opposition of the powers, the Turks are not like Matabele or Dr. vishes, they are pronounced by a high military authority to be about the best soldiers in the world, and they have an army of 700,000 with unlimited power of drawing on their whole population. To send a weak army against them would be rushing on disaster; while bombardment by the fleet would exasperate and provoke them to further massacres without bringing them to their knees.

STORIES FROM THE ARCHIVES OF THE PINKERTON DETECTIVE AGENCY.

For some time they did not meet again. Evans continued his vain efforts for a settlement, growing more and more anxious as the month wore by and he saw the danger to himself become more threatening. On the 9th of November he met Scott, Dunlap, and ated inside guarded by Robert Pinkerton and Inspector Dilks; while an officer, driver, and a squad of officers mounted into two other carriages. Then the carriages dashed out on Tenth street and toward the jail on Broadway and 10th St., where they reached safely.

But Leary's friends allowed him to attempt to rescue him, were not discouraged. The ablest lawyers were called in, his friends made every possible method of legal obstruction they kept alive a controversy in New York courts over the extradition until the early days of May, 1879. Finally the Supreme Court of the United States ruled in favor of the Federal jail where he enjoyed all the privileges ever accorded to prisoners. He returned he paid the warden the substantial sum of $10,000, and a few days later he sailed for his cabin he

TERROR OF THE SEA AND AIR.

Combined Torpedo Boat and Aerial Gun That Will be Used in the Next War

Experiments are now being tried with view of combining torpedo boats and aerial machines in hostile operations against ships or forts. A boat has been designed to dive under water and fire a torpedo into a battleship's hull. The torpedoed aerial gun will send a shell of explosives through the air and drop it in an enemy's deck or into a fort. If the combination of these two machines should prove successful the craft will be the most wonderful engine of destruction in modern warfare. The aerial gun is to be placed in the bow, and will be operated in this wise: The boat, for instance, is moving along the surface at a fifteen-knot speed. At the word of command her petroleum fires are put out, the electric engine started, the smokestack and ash shaft drawn inside the vessel and covered over. She is made to sink by admitting water into the tanks. At the same moment two horizontal rudders are inclined upward, and the eight-five-five-foot, cigar-shaped craft rises like a propeller. She runs, ordinarily faster than her mother ship, on the surface, but is built to stand the pressure of a depth of 70 feet. She has a constant tendency to rise, but is held under her stern. Should she accidentally sink, there are automatic arrangements governed by the outside water that empty the water tanks and compel her to rise to the surface. The effect of the fire of this machine is the more appalling because it can be delivered without giving the enemy any warning. As the boat is approaching an enemy the vessel rises to within three feet of the surface, and a revolving looking-glass is raised above the water to scan the horizon. A tube through a tube all the surroundings. When the range of a hostile fort is obtained the bow of the boat is allowed to come on a level with the surface of the water. The torpedo is the mouth of the aerial gun. The body of the gun is inside the boat. Then the automatic pressure sends a load of explosives into the air and drops it into the fort. The boat drops back into the depths of the sea, and the enemy cannot tell whence the shot comes. The boat is so small that it is right before the eyes of the enemy, but it is few rippling on the water.

Here is a cure for a terrible disorder of the mouth commonly called "scandal": "Take of 'good nature,' one ounce; of an herb called by the Indians 'mind your business,' one ounce; mix these with a little 'charity for others,' and two or three sprigs of 'keep your tongue between your teeth.' Application: The symptoms are a violent itching of the tongue and roof of the mouth, which invariably takes place when you are in company of a species of animals called gossip. When you feel a fit of it coming on, take a spoonful of the mixture, hold it in your mouth, which you will keep closely shut till you reach home, and you will find a complete cure. Should you apprehend a relapse, keep a small bottle about you, and on the slightest symptom repeat the dose."

Hand On a Wee.

The enthusiasm of "curlers" is well known. While King Frost hovers away every terrestrial consideration gives way to the "roarin' game."

The wife of a devotee was on her death bed, and she feebly muttered to her husband:

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS.

SINCE coming to Moose Jaw we have not made any great effort to collect subscriptions due for THE TIMES, and although a large number have been kind enough to pay in advance, there are still some on our subscription list who are in arrears. $1.50 is not much for you, in fact you would never miss it; but $1.50 x 200 = $300.00, which makes quite a sum for us to have out in small accounts. You need THE TIMES and we need the money, so kindly pay up your arrears, and oblige.

Yours truly,

One of our general merchants is contemplating the erection of a twenty-four foot ring for the accommodation of those who prefer settling disputes between themselves, in the wild west style. The idea was suggested by the fact that during the last few days several settlements have taken place in his store, much to the detriment of the glassware, etc., and also the manager who has just recovered the use of one of his limbs.

Hon. Mr. Patterson, Minister of Customs, has protested against the election of Mr. Henry, the Conservative candidate who defeated him on June 23rd, for the County of Brant. One of the charges is that men were imported from Buffalo for the purpose of impersonation. As the Buffalo men could not be compelled to come to Canada to testify, other means were taken, and a commission was ordered by the court. The Buffalonians testified very reluctantly, and getting information from them was like pulling teeth.
